Driving Changes: Vehicle Automation and the Future of Our Cities

David Ticoll, Distinguished Fellow, Innovation Policy Lab, Munk School of Global Affairs, will describe what self-driving cars, trucks and (even) drones are all about, if and when they will become commonplace, the upsides and risks, and what these changes mean for our families, neighbours, and the Canadian economy. He will also discuss some of the key policy and planning choices that we must face.

Reception to follow.

Sponsored by the UTFA Retired Members Committee.

To attend, RSVP to faculty@utfa.org.
