The Myth of Meritocracy

Join fellow U of T alumni and friends for a lecture that explores the systems and structural changes needed to improve workplace diversity.

The Myth of Meritocracy

by Professor Sarah Kaplan,
Distinguished Professor, Director, Institute for Gender and the Economy
Rotman School of Management

Cost: Free

(Live-Stream available)

Despite decades of effort, our path to gender equality has been littered with roadblocks. One of the most prominent is the notion that any deliberate effort to promote greater diversity will undermine our meritocratic system. In this talk, Kaplan will draw on cutting-edge research to bring a fresh perspective to this conversation.

Sarah Kaplan is Director of the Institute for Gender and the Economy and Distinguished Professor at the University of Toronto's Rotman School of Management.

Her current work focuses on applying an innovation lens to understanding the challenges for achieving gender equality and other social goods.

We will be live-streaming this talk for anyone who cannot attend in-person. Please click on the "Register to Live-Stream" button to sign up and we will send out the link a few days before the event.
