5th Wilfrid Laurier University student tests positive for coronavirus

October 1, 2020

Global News

A fifth student at Wilfrid Laurier University has tested positive for the novel coronavirus, the school announced.

The student attends Laurier's Waterloo campus but is not living in residence.

The school says the student is currently in isolation.

It did not provide any further details about the student due to privacy concerns.

The school says the case is being managed by Waterloo Public Health.
